About

var addthis_config = addthis_config||{}; addthis_config.data_track_addressbar = false; addthis_config.data_track_clickback = false;

Plain. Writer.

Though I'm primarily a tech book author (and former software engineer), I'm interested in a variety of subjects—the environment and the climate, animal welfare, sustainable agriculture and food safety, open documents, government, and, of course, technology.

I'm currently working on a new edition of "JavaScript Cookbook", after wading in and yanking out major portions of the first. I'm also updating my "Learning Node" book, to incorporate the new Node 1.0 changes. This update will be made available at no cost for current eBook owners.

But woman doesn't live by tech, alone. I'm also working on two books completely unrelated to technology. Stay tuned on these.

My Twitter account is @shelleypowers, my Facebook page is at Shelley.Just [1], and I sometimes write to Google+ [2].

Or you can just Email me [3].

Shelley Powers

O'REILLY
AUTHOR

Photo/image policy

Unless noted otherwise, all photos and screenshots used in my web sites are mine. You may use my images freely in your stories as long as you credit me. They cannot be used for commercial (advertising) purposes.

Reprint

My writings can be reprinted in their entirety in other web sites, as long as the site includes a link back to the original writing web page, and my name is associated as author of the piece. An email letting me know that you reprinted the work would be nice, too.

Shelley Powers posts the oddest assortment of links amidst the tiniest of blurbs on Twitter, @shelleypowers [4]

Source URL: http://burningbird.net/about

Links:
[1] https://www.facebook.com/shelley.just
[2] https://plus.google.com/u/0/115416893708386851153/posts
[3] mailto:shelley.just@gmail.com
[4] https://twitter.com/shelleypowers